Sonoma's Hamel Family Wines features custom weathered-wood pieces from Summit Furniture.

/ BEST WINERY: HAMEL FAMILY WINES /

When creating a winemaking facility, Hamel Family Wines set out to construct a modern yet inviting space that highlighted its stunning 124-acre parcel nestled between the mountains and the valley in Sonoma. The resulting structure—designed by renowned architecture firm Gould Evans, with interiors by San Francisco's Angela Free—incorporates sustainable details like night air cooling and a living green roof, plus a sleek tasting room and commercial kitchen for VIP food pairings. Most impressive of all is the outdoor terrace, where Free installed pieces from Monterey-based Summit Furniture's Smoothie Collection, all custom-weathered to produce a soft, bleached effect that blends seamlessly into the scenery. 15401 Sonoma Highway, Sonoma, 707.996.5800, hamelfamilywines.com

/ Best Lobby: Eighth & Grand /

Downtown L.A.'s booming growth, which includes the opening of The Broad and myriad restaurants and high-end retailers, has created an all-new demand for luxury rental units—a need most stylishly met by the just-opened Eighth & Grand. Designed by Carrier Johnson + Culture and architect Daryoush Safai, the seven-story, 700-unit tower offers a variety of floor plans and all the amenities one expects of a five-star hotel (resort-style pools, sculpture garden, sky lounge, cafe and fitness center, plus the area's only Whole Foods Market). With public spaces by Commune and a model residence and rotating lobby display by Jonathan Adler, the project is at the forefront of this new kind of hospitality-meets-residential design. "Commune has created amazing interior and exterior spaces at our project," says Neils Cotter, vice president of development at Carmel Partners. "Their aesthetic, combined with Jonathan Adler's furnishings, has created an atmosphere for our residents that is second to none." *From $2,345, 770 S.
