FURNITURE

Promemoria ▾

Lie back, relax and think of the Komodo dragon, which lends its name to the collection featuring this chaise. Perhaps it's the handsome feet that support its elegant frame, or the fact that it is covered in the finest fabric or leather – as supple as a lizard's skin – but it's not hard to draw visual parallels between this design and that magnificent creature. Promemoria's new family of furniture includes a sofa, a pouffe, a small table and a bed, and highlights the research the brand carries out into woods, offering interesting types that help create a refined interior; this piece is made from acacia. promemoria.com

Visionnaire ^

The seashell is the unlikely source of inspiration for Italian furniture brand Visionnaire's latest piece. Designed by Alessandro La Spada, who has previously created living room, dining and bathroom sets for the company, the Egoiste chaise longue envelops the user with its organic and extremely ergonomic lines, designed to evoke the way in which a shell might look after a pearl, its shape an invitation to enjoy moments of wellbeing. visionnaire-home.com

Giorgetti ^

A tribute to legendary Italian jewellery designer Elsa Peretti who died earlier this year, Giorgetti's new Elsa chair shares her principles of craft, style and comfort. Designed in collaboration with Marco Bonelli and Marijana Radovic of Milanese studio m2 atelier (see page 135), its walnut frame clasps the backrest as if in an embrace. It's part of a collaboration between the brands that also includes tables and accessories. giorgettimedia.com

Perennials ^

Launching this month, the Perennials collection by Vincent Van Duysen is a sumptuous range of outdoor fabrics and rugs designed to evoke the mood of Van Duysen's own house. The Belgian architect's style is characterised by soft colours and even softer textures – a look that seems minimalist but is actually rich with depth and soul – and these durable fabrics have the same sensibility. Available in a range of colours, the range aims to instil a feeling of homeliness to outdoor environments, ideal for covering everything from cushions to larger pieces. perennialsandsutherland.com

Siebensee ^

Designed specifically to withstand the rigorous weather conditions of life on deck, Siebensee's Celtic outdoor collection is constructed from the finest teak using the very best German craftsmanship. The Director's Chair is a standout piece, with the vaulting curves of its base oiled to a high-gloss finish and looping up to become arms. Pair it with a matching footstool and have the cushions covered in a fabric or leather of your choice. siebensee.com

Summit ^

Founded in 1979, Summit Furniture is known for using the highest-quality sustainable teak to craft seating and tables that are substantial yet elegant, with smooth curves and slim edges creating ergonomic shapes. A new collaboration with Winch Design sees the launch of the Arc collection, the arches of which evoke a sail billowing in the wind. This table happily seats up to 12 people and features an intriguing, slightly asymmetrical pattern. summitfurniture.com
