

Summit furniture unveils phase 2 Linley for summit at Sleep the hotel design event, London, November 26-27, 2014

Summit Furniture, Inc., the venerable teak manufacturer best known for creating the luxury outdoor lifestyle is pleased to unveil Phase II of the LINLEY for SUMMIT collection. The new pieces include an adjustable chaise lounge with wheels, a footrest, a small occasional table, a dining arm chair and a dining side chair, all which complement the inaugural pieces that debuted in 2013.

These latest additions to the range illustrate the ongoing synergy between the eponymous British design house LINLEY, and Summit. Summit's manufacturing expertise has yielded impeccable production of LINLEY's exceptional designs, which will continue with the new pieces.

The LINLEY for SUMMIT collection is a sophisticated range of outdoor furniture made of the finest plantation-grown teak, a sustainable resource and Summit hallmark. Summit's track record of collaboration with distinguished American and European designers to create beautifully handcrafted furniture for contract, residential and marine environments, has resulted in award-winning furniture designs.

LINLEY's international reputation for creating furniture and accessories that represent British craftsmanship at its very best is unparalleled. "We are thrilled to build on our partnership with Summit," said David Linley, Founder and Chairman of LINLEY. "They were the only fine teak manufacturer we considered for this collaboration, and have been quite pleased at the caliber of workmanship seen in the production and marketing of the range."

"When David Linley approached us last year to collaborate we were extremely excited," said Jane Sieberts, president of Monterey, CA based Summit Furniture. "Our brands are perfectly aligned; we both stand for quality, design excellence, elegance and exclusivity. We are off to an excellent start with the LINLEY for SUMMIT collection in Europe and in the US."

