

INVICTVS™

By Invitation Only

Issue 11 – Spring 2015

“*I am the master of my fate,
I am the captain of my soul*”

William Ernest Henley

Yacht Furniture Furnished with the facts

A significant element of any yacht's design—both internal and external—is the furniture. Whether subtly integrating into the overall décor or acting as a conversation piece, the importance of selecting specialist yachting furniture that offers practicality as well as style cannot be understated. We've selected some inspiring examples from some of the sector's leading designers and manufacturers...

Summit furniture aboard M/Y Nirvana
Luxury Vision Production

Linley Collection Lounge Chair With Seat And Back Cushions (LC703)

Designed by the House of Linley, this teak Lounge Chair With Seat And Back Cushions brings the indoors out with a sophisticated, clean aesthetic that feels at once inspired by the blazing sun of the Cote d'Azur and the metropolitan luxury of London's classic townhomes. According to the company, "this collection bridges the gap between traditional and contemporary, and marries the best of British design with the best of American manufacturing know-how and ingenuity."

Krios Three Piece Coffee Table (KR808)

As part of the new Krios Collection, designed in collaboration with Northern California based Conrad Asturi Studios, the Krio Three Piece Coffee Table in Teak is a strong outdoor statement. "I've been on the lookout for Summit's 'next-gen' collection for some time," said Jane Sieberts, president and creative director at Summit. "Krios personifies everything we love about the California lifestyle."

Linley Collection Coffee Table with Glass Top (LC709)

The graceful curves of the Linley-designed Coffee Table with Glass Top echo the classic, organic lines of art-deco inspired luxury ships of the golden age of travel. Though this striking table would be just at home indoors, its teak and brass construction will withstand the elements—and its design will stand the test of time.

Sundeck Stacking Adjustable Chaise With Cushion (SD345)

There are few outdoor pieces as mundane as the ubiquitous sun chair. The monotony of design and materials often causes the lounge to fade into the background, unless of course the chair is Summit's 'Sundeck', a stacking adjustable chaise with cushion designed by John Munford. The elegant arched form, coupled with the strong slatted surface, makes this piece as beautiful stacked as it is when in use—not an easy feat.

SUMMIT FURNITURE

Earning a worldwide reputation in the yachting sector for their quality of their furnishing design and manufacturer, Summit has produced seminal luxury teak furniture for outdoor use since 1979. An integral part of many iconic spaces, including the pool at Grand-Hotel du Cap-Ferrat and a long list of yachts—including a prominent place on the foredeck of Oceanco's Nirvana—Summit has become synonymous with the finest teak furnishings on the market. Having engaged in successful collaborations with a host of international designers, Summit recently announced a partnership with British design house Linley—founded by furniture designer David Linley—to produce a line of teak furnishings that typifies the 'modern-classic'. The Linley aesthetic dovetails precisely with the exacting standards that Summit has maintained since its inception.

